

CHANCE FOR A LEAN OLD WOMAN IN ART

No Buxom Show Girl or Piquant Little Thing with Winning Smiles Can Get the Job as Model.

SHE MUST BE THIN AND TALL.

For She is to Pose in Some Humorous Pictures Representing Women from the Rural Districts in a Big City Hotel.

The day of the lean, the lank, the attenuated and bawling female has at last arrived in art circles. No buxom show girl, with Titian hair and straight front carriage, with the air of the professional poser, need apply. Piquant little things, with ingenious and winning smiles and coquettish manners, may hasten back to their happy hunting-ground on the Great White Way and leave the antique in art to hold her own. C. W. White, who shares the La Fayette studio, at No. 634 Madison avenue, wants a real, genuine old lady to pose for him, and he especially stipulates that she must be thin and tall. Mr. White makes stereoscopic photographs, and he wants a model to pose for some humorous pictures representing a country woman in a city hotel.

Mr. White has not been overcome with applicants who were qualified under the age limit, though those who did appear were strenuous in their efforts to win the desired position of posing.

One aged woman came all the way down from Harlem in the hope of earning a little money by exhibiting herself as comic pictures.

"Anything to earn an honest dollar," she said. "I don't care if I do make a laughing stock of myself."

A lean old woman with a highly developed sense of humor appeared and insisted upon beginning work immediately.

"I've posed ever since I was a child of six," she explained, "and I can do anything in the way of facial contortions that is required."

The candidates who have already applied have not filled the bill and Mr. White is still looking for a lean, lank woman with a sufficient height to make her desirable for his particular line of pictures.

"The reason I want the genuine article instead of theatrical people is because the artificial lines in the latter make-up show in the stereoscopic," he said. "I expect a large number of thin old women here, and if I don't get my ideal I'll have to send up to Harlem for the old lady with the willing ways, although she isn't as tall as she ought to be."

CHOP SUEY AT DELMONICO'S.

Chinese Gathering Will Dine There and Discuss Things.

There's going to be a dinner in Chinese style at Delmonico's this evening at which forty Celestials will sit down with as many Caucasians and try to enlighten them as to the needs of China.

The dinner, which will be given by the New York Lodge of the Chinese Restaurant Association, of which Joseph M. Singleton is President, will be in honor of Sun Hsu, the Grand President of the association. Mr. Singleton, an Anglized Chinaman, will preside at the dinner. Guy Main, "the Duke" of Chinatown, will make the principal speech of the evening. Main is a graduate of Harvard and is considered to be one of the best-informed Celestials in this country.

A Light That's Failing.

A light is just going out in England which has been burning a thousand years. It was set aglow at Towneley Hall in the days of King Alfred. Not the most constant burner known to history, this. At the opening of the tomb of Tullia, daughter of Cicero, a lamp is said to have burned 1,600 years. In those old times steady lights were the things.

"Let your lamps be trimmed and burning."

Why depart from good custom? Let us look to our own illuminations.

And not only see that our particular light so shines, but that we help some other fellow to light up, each to his own way of helping.

Scores of men cast their rays through The World's Lens. They offer business opportunities without number to the fellow who's only waiting for a chance.

This morning's World, for example, contained fifty-one business opportunity advertisements, offering a patent right, a hardware business, a summer season investment, a tailor shop, &c., &c. There are nineteen more business opportunity advertisements this morning than on same day last year.

The place to advertise or seek Business Opportunities is in the Sunday World Want about. The three and seven time rates are paying proposition.

Do You Want Summer Boarders? You can easily get them by advertising in the SUNDAY WORLD.
